PBIS @FMS Be Safe
Be Responsible
Be Respectful

Here is a list of ways to teach respect in the classroom. Choose 2 or 3 from the list and tweet out to #fmsteach how your class learned RESPECT today!

Design a bumper sticker about respect. Include on the bumper sticker: the word Respect, a picture or slogan for why you should use it and at least three words that describe it.

Discuss why acting respectful is important. Now make a list of people you think are respectful and why you added them to your list.

Make a campaign poster about respect. Make sure you include the word "Respect" and two reasons why someone would want to vote for having respect at your school. You could use construction paper, felt pens, crayons, magazine cut-outs and templates.

Q1: (9:06) We'll start with an easy one: what helped you decide which college was the best fit for you?
Q2: (9:12) Students often feel pressure to have a life plan on day one of college. How did your plans change from HS to where you are now?
Q3: (9:18) With Q2 in mind, at what point did you know you wanted to become a teacher?
Q4: (9:24) Who is a teacher that you feel shaped the person/teacher you are today? How so?
Q5: (9:30) With Q4 in mind, how do you feel you instill/reflect some of those same characteristics to your own students?

Ten days ago, Southport Middle began the Positive February Challenge. It has been amazing to see the students tackle the daily challenges and get involved. But let's be honest, February is a tough month! Statistically, we see an increase in behavior, the days are dark and cold, the honeymoon of Christmas Break is over, sickness spreads, and we all get worn down. That is why we wanted to create something where we can promote being positive on a daily basis. However it is not only being positive for ourselves, but being positive and supportive to those around us!

For those of you that know me, I am a very positive, upbeat person! When I am speaking with kids in my office, that I mentor, or colleagues, all of them know the phrase that I use when asked "Live the Dream!" I have one of the greatest jobs in the world. On a daily basis I get to greet students as they are walking in, give high five's and fist bumps while walking the halls, but also pull kids aside and have conversations with them about actions or reflections. But one of the hardest parts of my job is hearing their stories. I am not talking about the latest movies that they saw or music they are currently listening too, but what is taking place in their lives. That all starts by creating those relationships with them! Students need an outlet and that is US! A recent quote that I saw on Twitter, during a chat that I co-moderate, stated: "In teaching, you can't do the Bloom stuff until you take care of the Maslow stuff." How truthful is that! How real is that!

Comments Off on Day 131: Badminton Basics

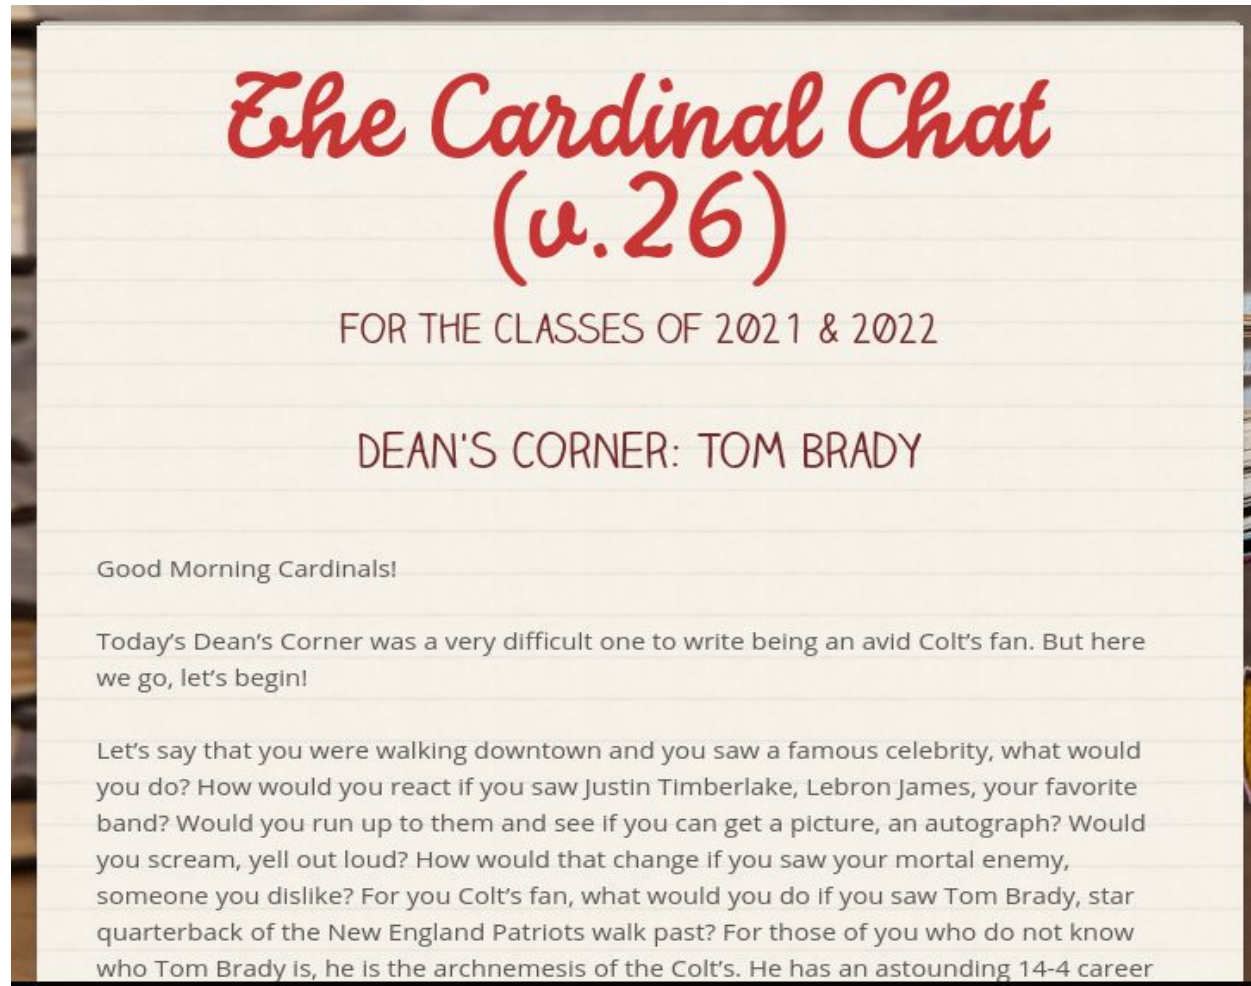

8th grade students in McClanahan's class began learning about the basics of badminton. Students were to demonstrate their ability to perform backhands and forehands with their partner. Ms. McClanahan modeled the correct grip, showed the sweet spot of the racquets, and proper technique of each stroke. The students then paired up and practiced their forehand and backhand. They played games like trying to go through the ABCs and Last Woman Standing.

MO SW-PBS & MTSS:

BRIDGING THE GAPS

“There are people in this room, no matter how compelling of evidence or ideas that I have shared, or the experiences that I have tried to create will do nothing different tomorrow. Will you be that person?

- George Couros (@gcouros)

<http://georgecouros.ca/blog/>

With whom are you trying to increase connection? WHY?

- What communication piece is most needed for your school community?
- What can you start, continue, or emphasize more that will be the most visible for your audience? What makes you say that?
- Why is this social media tool best tool for your intended audience?
- How often do you believe you will have to post in order to be effective?

1. Identify your Goal

GOAL

Increase communication with staff members to improve school culture -- share all the great things happening in our building to inspire others and cultivate a sense of community.

2. List all Barriers (Brainstorm what might stop me from reaching my goal.)

Barriers

1. Too many social media sites
2. Control the info flow
3. TIME
4. Balancing Recognition
5. Staff are novice users
6. Overkill with communication
7. Openness to a new way
8. Vulnerability
9. Format for all users
10. Goes against school policy
11. Phone policy
- 12.

3. Identify Major Barriers (reduce your list to 2 or 3 of the most important)

1. Too many social media sites
2. No tech staff users never see social media
3. Reluctant Staff

4. Solutions/Strategies/Interventions

(to address your barriers)

- Find a way to compile everything into one format
- Share personal learning/growth through weekly blogging
- Daily walk-throughs focused on positive stories -- validate teacher effectiveness
- Leaders need to model positive use of social media in a school setting

Who will be responsible?

(to implement solutions/strategies/interventions)

Great leaders don't tell you what to do....they show you how its done
